This unique master's program is based on integrating three streams of study: Health, Outdoor and Physical Education.

Participants in this program will have an interest in:
- curriculum development
- improving their opportunities for leadership in any of the three stream areas

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

All graduate program applicants in the Department of Curriculum & Pedagogy (EDCP) must meet the minimum entry requirements established by the Faculty of Graduate Studies, which oversees graduate work at UBC. Applicants who do not meet the minimum requirements will be considered for admission only in exceptional circumstances.

We are looking for students with academic strength and a track record of leadership. Applicants need:

- Resumé/CV
- A minimum of two years full-time teaching experience or an equivalent combination of engagement within schools, communities, non-governmental organizations, or other education-oriented environments.
- A completed four-year undergraduate degree and at least a 76% average on all senior-level credits.
- Three recommendations from educators and administrators that speak to your engagement with Health, Outdoor, & Physical Experiential Education (HOPE-Ed), teaching or other relevant professional experience.
- A 600-word statement of intent clearly outlining your experiences and interests in Health, Outdoor, & Physical Experiential Education (HOPE-Ed). Specify your interest in one of the three streams and outline how the specialization in Curriculum Studies supports your professional goals.
